

August 15, 2007

Washington, D.C. – Just a week away from the “2007 Economic Summit: Innovation, Entrepreneurship and the Future of the U.S. Economy,” McNerney & Associates, Inc. (McNerney) today announced the addition of several new speakers to the summit.

“The addition of these speakers will ensure that the summit features a well-rounded discussion of a variety of issues facing the U.S. economy,” said McNerney President, John McNerney.

Economic Summit details:

Wednesday, August 22, 2007

Long Theater

University of the Pacific, Stockton

8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Below is the list of newly announced Economic Summit participants:

- Ed Chavez, Mayor, City of Stockton
- Dorothy Dugger, Interim General Manager, San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART)
- Mick Founts, Deputy Superintendent, Student Programs and Services, San Joaquin County Office
- Steve Gutierrez, Supervisor, San Joaquin County Board of Supervisors
- Ed McNulty, Principal, Central Valley Fund
- Farrell Moseley, Vice President of Operations, Comcast Central Valley Region
- Jim O'Neal, District Director, Small Business Administration
- John Solis, Director, San Joaquin County Workforce Investment Board
- Chuck Williams, Dean, Eberhardt School of Business, University of the Pacific

These participants are in addition to a list announced two weeks ago, which follows below:

- Mark Chandler, Executive Director, Lodi Woodbridge Winegrape Commission
- Hazel Hill, Dean of Workforce and Economic Development, San Joaquin Delta College
- Tim Hunt, Former Editor and Associate Publisher, Tri-Valley Herald
- Mike Locke, President and CEO, San Joaquin Partnership
- Stacey Mortensen, Executive Director, Altamont Commuter Express
- Victor Mow, Chairman, San Joaquin County Board of Supervisors
- Mark Plovnick, Economic Development Director, University of the Pacific
- Bill Scott, Executive Vice President, Akeena Solar
- Jim Walker, Vice President, enXco

The “2007 Economic Summit: Innovation, Entrepreneurship and Renewable Energy” will focus on expansion

Members of the public who are interested in attending are welcome – and encouraged – to do so.